

Candelabrum, c. 1755-60

Rococo double candelabrum in form of a flowering tree crowned with a nesting bird. The applied flowers and delicately painted figures clearly demonstrate the ambitions of early Derby to be a “second Meissen”.

Image from: Derby Museum and Art Gallery